3-5-Employment history

43-Hauled waste for Behm Glass. It was just regular trash that went to the PRL.

- Hauled for Buckeye Boiler to PRL. Waste was pallets, paper, and cardboard.

44-Cargill--believes the only reason their waste was hauled to PRL was because it was closer than going to the other landfill.

- Doesn't remember taking anything to PRL from Children's Medical Center, but says if he was told to take it there, he would have taken it there.

- Hauled for City of Vandalia. Waste was residential for the most part.

- It is possible that he took Duriron waste to the PRL.

45-Elder-Beerman's waste should have gone to the incinerator, unless it was diverted. Waste was store "stuff," like shoe boxes and general trash.

- Trash for Emery should have gone to the incinerator. It was just general trash. [Possibly diverted?]

- Fred Debra was a general contractor on the base; generated construction debris.

- Remembers Gayston Corporation, but not the kind of trash they generated.

- Gem City Engineering was an incinerator load but was probably diverted. They generated regular trash.

46-Gold Circle was a department store. Its waste was probably diverted to the PRL.

- Hewitt Soap's waste would have gone to the landfill probably because of its weight. A lot of times it was heavy, had soap in it. It would cost more at the incinerator than the landfill.

- Waste for the Mazer Corp. was probably a diverted load to the PRL. It would have consisted of kids' school books, cardboard, paper and printing-type materials.

- 47-Waste for Modern Industrial Plastics would have normally gone to an incinerator. Its waste was shredded plastic.
-Waste for Mullins Rubber went to the PRL. It was rubber strips and moldings.
-Ohio Bell generated wires and short pieces of poles.
- 48-Pepsi-Cola was a forty-two yard packer with a lot of glass. It was heavy. They were regular customers. Trash was hauled probably twice a week.
-Premier Rubber should have gone to Cardington, but apparently went to the PRL at some point in time.
- 49-Requarth Lumber generated steel bands.
-Ryan Homes was a construction outfit.
-Shopsmith should have been an incinerator load. Might have been diverted. They make power saws and power tools. Their trash was small cardboard boxes.
- 50-Stouffer's Restaurant was probably diverted to the PRL.
-Tru-Foto was probably diverted to the PRL.
-Yoder Die Cast would have been a landfill load, but it should have gone to Valleycrest because it's located close to the Valleycrest landfill. Their trash consisted of wood pallets and cardboard boxes.
- 52-Most of the waste for Duraspan was dumped in the incinerator. If it was diverted, it would have gone to the PRL. Waste was styrofoam-like materials.
- 53-Does not recall ever seeing any fires or explosions at PRL. Nothing was ever rejected from PRL or refused. Does not recall any unusual incidents or unauthorized dumping.
